

Anniesland College

Anniesland College has been involved in international education for the past 9 years.

From an initial provision of English for Speakers of Other Languages, our international work since included the provision of HNC/D with articulation to university and the in-country training of trainers.

A junior middle school graduate from China who studied on our English Plus Programme in 1999, his additional subject being Higher Mathematics went on to study on a full programme of SQA Highers at a local private school, then for an undergraduate degree in Mathematics at Manchester University. He is currently studying for a PhD in Mathematics in London and works as an agent for Anniesland College, sending students each year to follow the same study path.

In the Gulf States provision has been different, with students advancing from the initial English Language course to HNC/D in the College and then to university. One such student from Bahrain, for example, successfully studied HNC/D Multimedia Computing with Web Development in Anniesland College, articulated to year 3 of a BSc degree in Napier University and has just begun his career in this field back home in Bahrain.

The link with Bahrain has also seen the College successfully bid for work with the Ministry of Education in Bahrain, delivering PDAs to trainers there.
